Description

Arif Halaby has dedicated his life to protecting people. Arif transitioned from 11 years of service with the Los Angeles Police Department to helping people protect and preserve their hard-earned assets. Arif specializes in helping people get out of debt while planning for retirement. He is the owner of four financial services firms and operates Total Financial Money School where he educates people on ways to integrate finances in their day-to-day lives. One of his areas of expertise is business development. Arif has been involved in a variety of levels with over 80 different companies whether as a consultant or a member of the board or corporate officer. He has vast experience in helping business owners maximize their earnings potential through creative business models and wise investments and insurance. He hosts two radio shows: The Total Financial Hour on KRLA AM 870 and The Safer Money Hour on KHTS AM 1220. He also has written a number of articles on practical financial topics for Inside SCV Magazine. After experiencing success using the model outlined by the book Rich Dad Poor Dad Arif was asked to appear on an infomercial in January 2000 that ran worldwide. A staunch advocate of education Arif founded the Halaby Scholarship Fund in 1997 to award students who demonstrate exceptional character. Having built his business on a faith-based foundation Arif places strong emphasis on helping his clients manage their finances through a spirit of giving. His expertise as a trusted financial advisor has earned the esteem of the Los Angeles community.
