Isaac Nuriani, president of Augusta Precious Metals, is a financial expert with more than 13 years of experience who is sought after for his knowledge of the economy and precious metals. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics from the University of California—Los Angeles and is a member of the Industry Council for Tangible Assets (ICTA).

Because of the company's values-based business practices, the Nuriani family has thrived in the coin business for more than 40 years. Quite simply, Augusta follows the Golden Rule: "Treat people the way you want to be treated" – in other words, like family. Augusta is committed to helping Americans protect their hard-earned assets by making the gold and silver buying process easy, simple and personal.

Augusta takes pride in offering extremely competitive pricing on an excellent selection of precious metals products. You will not see over-the-top Augusta commercials with expensive celebrity speakers, or speak with a high-pressure salesperson in an expensive office, or even receive a postcard. Augusta avoids high-cost marketing and passes the savings on to customers.

The Augusta approach is traditional. Each client is assigned a very friendly and knowledgeable personal account executive who is thoroughly trained in client satisfaction, precious metal products, and global economic factors affecting gold and silver prices, as well as traditional investments.
